About The Walden School (www.waldenschool.org)

The Walden School Young Musicians Program provides an unparalleled creative summer experience for musically inclined students ages 9 to 18. Part school, part camp, and part festival, the program convenes each summer for five weeks in Dublin, New Hampshire. Through rigorous and innovative daily instruction, students hone their musical and creative skills within a supportive community of like-minded peers and mentors. Learning at Walden is grounded in the school's unique musicianship course, which utilizes improvisation and composition as the major tools for musical growth. Students take courses covering a wide range of musical subjects, including theory, composition, literature, computer music, and chorus. By the end of the summer, each student has completed at least one compositional work to be performed and critiqued by guest artists, faculty members, and fellow students. To compliment the challenging musical curriculum and to help build a cohesive community, Walden strives to engage students in extra-musical activities throughout the session. Mountain hikes, swim trips, shopping excursions, recreational sports, dances, and open mike nights encourage students, faculty, and staff to relax and enjoy the company of one another. Community-building also occurs in the dorms, where faculty and staff live among the students, and at mealtimes, when the entire community gathers together in the dining hall for exceptionally prepared food.

The Walden School Teacher Training Institute offers professional development opportunities to help music educators sharpen their musicianship skills, enrich their teaching with imaginative activities, and more effectively guide the creative voices of their students. Workshops offered by The Walden School Teacher Training Institute are based upon The Walden School Musicianship Course, an original approach to teaching the fundamentals of music with an emphasis on creative application, specifically through music improvisation and composition. In addition, the course offers activity-based methods for developing high-level fluency with theoretical concepts and effective methods for teaching ear training.

Financial Aid at Walden

Tuition for the Young Musicians Program, at $6,300, and for the Teacher Training Institute, at $1,600, is an unreachable goal for some program participants and a difficult stretch for many others. In the summer of 2010, we awarded more than $80,000 in financial aid. Your support of financial aid for next summer will put Walden within reach for those with the greatest financial need.

About Hilary Kole

Hilary began singing and playing the piano at age five. At twelve, she received a scholarship to attend The Walden School, where she spent her next 6 summers. Her compositions garnered three National Federation of Music Awards. She is also the recipient of the prestigious Delius Award for her work Piano Trio No.1 which received its world premiere with the Jacksonville Symphony. Upon graduating high school, she was granted a scholarship by the Oakley Foundation to study composition at Manhattan School of Music. Hilary's compositions have been performed by the New England Brass Quintet, the Peabody Trio, and the Manhattan School of Music Jazz Vocal Ensemble, among others.

Hilary began her professional career at the legendary Rainbow Room as the youngest singer ever to grace the stage.
